To all exhibitors, retailers and attraction owners,

Health and Safety legislation requires that the HDSL A (organising committee for the Hamstreet Country Show) must enforce all Health and Safety requirements. This means that the Safety Representative will need to check and review all documentation. This would be made easier if all concerned could provide us with copies of all necessary documents. The documents we require from you are listed below.

The law also requires that all portable electrical equipment must be PAT tested. All equipment that may come in to contact with the general public must have been tested and have the necessary test sticker identifying who tested it and when the next test is required.

This will include caravans that are connected to the mains supply.

Thank you for helping us to comply with these regulations.
